Controlling ozone raises thorny issues. Daniel Chartier examines the US ‘cap and trade’ approach to the problem

Daniel Chartier is treasurer of the Emissions Marketing Association (EMA) and serves as emissions marketing manager at PG&E Generating in Bethesda, Maryland, US. He has over 13 years’ experience in the electric utility industry and holds a BS in Mechanical Engineering and an MBA, both from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

The opinions expressed in the above article are not necessarily the opinions of the Emissions Marketing Association, its members or member companies.